

of the coming year, will command the First District, is now serving his twenty-second year on the force, having been appointed July 7, 1885, and been continuously in the corps ever since.

Some years ago he attained the rank of sergeant on his merits and as a recognition of exceptionally good service. He is a man of fine intelligence, and his record as an officer is one of the best. He is popular with his fellow-officers, and has been with his superiors as well.

Captain George W. Epps, the new commander of the Second District, is one of the veteran officers remaining on the force. He is a man of commanding presence, dignity and intelligence, and possesses the qualities for command. Born in Richmond in 1847, Captain Epps received his schooling in his native city at the age of seventeen responded to the call to arms and entered the Confederate service as a member of the Richmond Light Infantry Blues on April 12, 1861, serving thereafter with gallantry.

He was wounded in one of the battles near Petersburg in June of that year, and was captured in New York April 5, 1865, and imprisoned in New York until June 25 of that year. Thereafter he returned to his home, a youthful veteran, and commenced his career as a blacksmith's apprentice in his father's shop. He was appointed a member of the police force in 1875, and served as a private until 1881, when he was made acting sergeant, and was appointed full sergeant in 1883. For nearly twenty years he served as sergeant until promoted to a captain a few years ago, succeeding the late Captain John P. Schumacher as inspector. Captain Epps's work as inspector has been to assist with that office, there being less need for an inspector since the efficiency of the patrol-box system was established.

Both Veterans in Service.

Captain W. R. Whitlock, the retiring captain of the First District, is a veteran in the service, and a Confederate veteran as well. Sixty-six years old at the time, the captain is very active for his years, but it was deemed best to supersede him in command of the district by a man whose prospect of service is as long as that of Captain Whitlock. Born in Chester, Va., in December, 1840, he remained in Richmond with his parents when a small lad, and has resided here ever since. He became associated with his father in the tobacco business as manager for the John E. Whitlock Company, but in April, 1862, he gave up the pursuit of peace to assume those of war, enlisting in the Confederate service with the Virginia Life Guards. The youthful soldier served with fidelity and gallantry during the entire war, and was severely wounded at the battle of Sailor's Creek in 1864.

After the surrender at Appomattox, he was unwilling to stop fighting and escaped through the lines, and together with several comrades sought to join John Johnston, but was captured. After the war he returned to Richmond, and was elected to the police force almost immediately, entering upon his duties in December, 1865, just forty years ago. Several prominent Confederate generals shared his application. In 1870 he was made a sergeant by Mayor Henry R. Elyson, and served in this capacity until April 1896, when he was promoted to a captain. Captain Whitlock is a man of polished manners and pleasing address, and has thousands of friends.

Captain John P. Elyson, who is retired from that rank in past years, two years ago, and Captain Whitlock is a veteran in the service, and a Confederate veteran as well.

He was elected to the force in June, 1872, and served as a private in the Second District for nine years, until promoted to sergeant, and assigned to the old Third District. In 1881 he was promoted to sergeant, and in 1883 to captain. For several years during his service as sergeant, he was assigned to detective duty, with headquarters at the city's office, and made a splendid record in this line of police work.

Since the abolition of the old Third District, Captain Elyson has remained in the Second District, and has made an excellent record as an officer. He is a prominent member of the Order of Knights of Pythias, and is a member of a liberal education, industry and general ability.

In nearly twenty years' service, he has borne himself as a man and a policeman, and has gained the respect and confidence of his fellow-officers, and has been a constant help to the chief of police.

Five New Officers.

The election of five officers to fill vacancies among the constables of recently closed elections resulted in the choice of Messrs. Kratz, Giller, Daniels, Werner and Epps, who will be sworn in full tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

The board of police commissioners has also decided to recommend the removal of the constable of the Second District to the position of constable of the newly acquired city territory, and to the need of additional men to patrol this large area.

BLUE BLOOD

May Be Aristocratic, but It's Liable To Cause Cold Hands and Feet.

Wherever the blue blood is found, it is found in the veins of the aristocratic. It is the blood of the aristocratic, and it is the blood of the aristocratic. It is the blood of the aristocratic, and it is the blood of the aristocratic.

That is to say, the blood in the veins of the aristocratic is the blood of the aristocratic. It is the blood of the aristocratic, and it is the blood of the aristocratic. It is the blood of the aristocratic, and it is the blood of the aristocratic.

His judgment was good—could not have done as well anywhere else.

fort and support and hope during a long career.

Hate Realized.

"But the American people have not had these things so squarely before them. Our own press has been to a considerable extent the reflection of the Paris anti-clerical press. Americans have little conception of the French anti-clerical. They look upon the leaders of this party as enlightened statesmen seeking to preserve the republic from the attacks of an aggressive clergy. There have been honest and sincere lovers of republicanism among anti-clericals. I admit, but the majority of them have been less than honest. They have been men of hate of religion. I am not speaking of words, and I say with deliberate conviction that the leaders of the present French government are actuated by nothing less than hatred of religion.

We have no spirit akin to theirs in this country. We have less much indifference to religion, but we have no body of men, no great party that makes it a chief aim to weaken the power of religion, and if possible, utterly to destroy it out of the land.

Jacobin Not Dead.

"In France the Jacobin party is not dead. Their spirit is as living to-day as it was in the last decade of the nineteenth century. They hate God, they hate Christ, they hate religion as much as ever their fathers did. But they have learned a more potent and measured method of attack. They are almost entirely in the means they take to suppress Christianity. And yet, the utterance of such men are received as unexpectantly.
